2016 Agroecology Symposium
Fruit Productions in the Tropics & Food Security

Registration: 9:00am

9:20 AM  Welcome Address

9:30 AM  Panel Discussion
Topic: Current Research in Fruit Production in the Tropics: Implications for Food Security

Speakers: Dr. Essie Fallahi, University of Idaho, and Mr. Jeff Wasielewski, Commercial Tropical Fruit Agent, Miami-Dade County Extension Office

Dr. Fallahi, is the Director of the Pomology Program at the Perma Research Center and is currently the Vice-president of the American Society of Horticultural Science. He is known for his contributions to the fruit industry in the U.S. Mr. Wasielewski has expertise in tropical fruit production and advises commercial growers in Miami.

11:15 AM  Poster session on agriculture and natural resources

12:15 PM  Networking Lunch (RSVP required)

1:15 PM  Technical sessions on sustainable food and natural resources management

Dr. Essie Fallahi
Director of Pomology and Viticulture at University of Idaho, Parma Research and Extension Center

Date: Monday, April 25th, 2016
Location: FIU-MMC- GC Ballroom MD

Please RSVP to tbeck016@fiu.edu

This program is supported by USDA-NIFA- Hispanic Serving Institutions, Multicultural Scholarship Program, and National Needs Fellowship grants.